MEMORANDUM

TO: Regional Directors of NCR, Region I, VIII, and XI

ATTENTION: Select Schools Division Superintendents

FROM: ^{JLS} JESUS R. MATEO
 Undersecretary

SUBJECT: Conduct of the Youth Education Investments and Labor Market Outcomes Survey (YEILMOS)

DATE: 31 January 2017

In support of the implementation of the K to 12 Program which added two years to the basic education cycle, the Department of Education (DepEd) conducts research and policy reviews to further improve the implementation of its programs, processes and systems. The Senior High School (SHS), which covers the last two years of the program, aims to provide different tracks where learners can choose based on their skills and interest. In line with this, DepEd also implements the Career Guidance Program to help learners make informed decision regarding their choice of SHS track.

In this light, DepEd in partnership with the Asian Development Bank (ADB) will be undertaking a Youth Education Investments and Labor Market Outcomes Survey (YEILMOS). The main purpose of this survey is to understand the different factors that influence and shape the choices of youths concerning their chosen education track. Moreover, the study is expected to provide evidence on policies and program interventions that can improve effectiveness of educational investments to better match labor market demand. Specifically, the survey aims to:

1. understand the factors that influence the education related choices and investments made by youth, and how these choices and investments affect subsequent labor market outcomes;

 Officer-In-Charge AB

2. complement the on-going education and labor market reform efforts of the Philippine government, specifically Senior High School Career Guidance Program, by revealing household and youth decision making processes for educational and skill investments; and
3. inform the design of ongoing and future programs aimed at improving youth's ability to invest and develop skills that are well-matched to what is in demand.

The proposed study will be undertaken through a survey. This will represent a newly designed structured questionnaire that will tackle a subsample of the population. Furthermore, the study is expected to capture the learners' decision to continue onto higher education and the types of fields or vocation of skills training to undertake. The data derived from the survey will then be analyzed and used to examine how socioeconomic and family background, credit constraints, availability of financial aid, information and expectations on available jobs and their wage returns, among others, influence an individual's decision to choose, apply, invest, and ultimately complete different skills training programs. Other skills will also be developed during the entire duration of this study (e.g. statistical technique for survey design, data analysis and policy implications, dissemination of results and designing future information intervention programs for succeeding survey rounds).

In view of this, we would like to seek the assistance of your good office in coordinating and organizing this undertaking which will be conducted on the week between February 06- February 14, 2017. Your participation in this endeavor is highly imperative for the success of the survey. Table 1 below shows the schedule of the activities and those who will be involved.
